Dear S 22

Request for advice on claims for Printing and Communications [M&PS Ref 1177679]

You have sought advice as to whether the attached Marriage Equality Advertisement may be claimed as a printing and communications work expense. Your request has been considered by Ministerial and Parliamentary Services (M&PS) under the Parliamentary Entitlements Regulations 1997 (the PE Regulations). M&PS advises as follows:

- * The above item complies with the PE Regulations requirement that it may only be used for parliamentary or electorate purposes and must not be used for party business or commercial purposes.
- * The above item must be printed on paper or card weighing not more than 700 grams per square metre or on flat, magnetised material.
- * As currently drafted, the above item may be claimed as a printing and communications work expense under the PE Regulations.

Please note: you will need to complete the Printing and Communications Entitlement - Certification (Form 141) when submitting invoices for payment. Also, please ensure that you quote, where indicated, the above M&PS reference number.

- * Where there are no changes to the assessed item, samples are NOT required when submitting invoices.
- * If there have been changes made, please ensure that a sample of each item detailed on the invoice (either commercially printed item or e-material) is attached. Delays will occur in payment of the account if these samples are not provided.

More information on printing and communications is available on the Ministerial and Parliamentary Services website.

If you have any further queries, please contact the M&PS Help Desk.

Regards

Ministerial and Parliamentary Services

If the definition of marriage changes, there will be other consequences.

3 WAYS GAY MARRIAGE WILL IMPACT YOUR FAMILY

1. IMPACT ON SCHOOLS

Changing the marriage law will have consequences for what is taught in our kids' classrooms.

Changing the marriage law to allow same-sex couples to marry means taking gender out of our laws.

Radical gay sex education programs will become more widespread and compulsory as has happened overseas.

More and more kids will be taught their gender is fluid and not based on biology.

If same-sex marriage becomes law, parents will not have a leg to stand on if they don't want their kids taught radical sex education, and gender ideologies.

Saying 'yes' to same-sex marriage means saying 'no' to parents' rights.

2. IMPACT ON FREE SPEECH

Already we have seen the lengths the 'Yes' activists will go to shut down any conversation or debate around same-sex marriage.

If gender is removed from the marriage law, it will weaponise federal and state anti-discrimination laws giving activists the ability to drag people who disagree with gay marriage before human rights and anti-discrimination commissions.

This has already happened overseas where service providers who have declined to participate in same-sex weddings have been taken to court, lost their business and even been told their beliefs about marriage are illegal.

Saying 'yes' to same-sex marriage means saying 'no' to freedom of speech.

3. IMPACT ON RELIGION & CHARITIES

If the marriage law is changed, activists will use anti-discrimination laws to prevent churches, charities and schools from teaching or operating in accordance with their beliefs.

This is already happening in Australia and it will only get worse if the law is changed.

Some activists have sought to have churches evicted from renting public school halls because their sermons have taught that marriage is between a man and a woman.

In the UK, a private Jewish primary school is now facing closure because the school refuses to teach the government mandated gender-fluidity curriculum.

Saying 'yes' to same-sex marriage means saying 'no' to religious freedom.

If you want to stop this, you must return your No vote.
