

PROTECT OUR PENALTY RATES

Malcolm Turnbull: Lower penalty rates inevitable with 'seven day economy'

Malcolm Turnbull: Sunday penalty rates are outdated
- Herald Sun, 6 October 2015

Mr Turnbull and the Liberals support cuts to workers' penalty rates.

Over 4.5 million Australians rely on penalty rates to pay the bills, take care of their families and make ends meet.

A cut to penalty rates means a severe cut to their weekly pay.

Mr Turnbull has never had to rely on penalty rates to get by – he doesn't know what it's like to need them.

Maybe that's why he doesn't understand just how important penalty rates are for so many Australian workers.
